Welcome to RDJ's graduate training programme

Welcome to RDJ and to our trainee solicitor programme. This programme has one focus – you.

Everything we do during the programme is focused on providing you with the best possible training from the best lawyers in a broad range of legal disciplines. We do this because we know that you are our future. Our programme is designed to bring you with us on a journey to a time and place at RDJ where our client chooses you as their lawyer.

We have been building on recent changes that have made the way we work better, offering our team new flexible work options, leveraging game changing technology to improve how we deliver legal services and creating the optimum environment for our people to be not just great lawyers but to also serve our clients well.

During the process of making you a great lawyer, we also want you to really enjoy your time with us. We do understand that all work and no play makes both Jack and Jane dull people. Whether it's our wellness initiatives, our walking and running clubs, nights out, weekends away, we know that life is about much more than work. We are a community of 280 people who spend quite a lot of time together. We want that time to be the best time for you.

Welcome to RDJ.

Your path to becoming a lawyer

Leah Moriarty

TRAINEE SOLICITOR

“...you are included from the get-go in exciting and complex matters”

Talk us through the RDJ solicitor trainee programme

RDJ is a full-service corporate law firm. As such, trainees get the opportunity to gain experience across the firm's main practice areas by completing rotations in Litigation/Dispute Resolution, Corporate & Commercial and Property, as well as do rotations in other practice areas that interest you.

This broad training was very appealing to me when applying to RDJ as getting to experience a number of practice areas allows you to see as much of the law in practice as possible and make an informed decision as to what area you would like to qualify into. So far, I have completed a rotation in the Commercial Litigation department. I have been involved in many aspects of trial preparation across matters before the Circuit Court, High Court and Court of Appeal, as well as mediations and arbitrations. It has been interesting to see how what we studied in university translates to practice.

RDJ also places a great emphasis on employee wellness and work-life balance. There are many social events organised including nights out, trainee weekends away and countless sporting and wellness activities to get involved in.

Why did you decide to study law?

I initially chose to study law as I enjoy dealing with facts and solving problems. I have always been logical and rational and enjoy interacting with a variety of people on a daily basis. While studying law in University, I enjoyed problem questions involving using the law as a tool to be applied to different practical scenarios. I believed that a career as a solicitor would be both challenging and rewarding and suit my personality. A nine-month internship with RDJ as part of the BCL Clinical programme in UCC solidified that becoming a solicitor was the career choice for me.

What have you learned/gained most from working at RDJ?

RDJ provides a fantastic training environment. You are trained at the highest level and are included from the get-go in exciting and complex matters. It has been very rewarding to see the trust and confidence partners and solicitors place in me as a part of the team. The level of responsibility entrusted to me has grown since I first started with the firm. RDJ gives trainees feedback at regular intervals on their performance and progress within the firm. I have gained a real sense of confidence in my ability from training at RDJ.
